I submitted an application for a Home Business conditional use permit in June and withdrew that application when my 1992 Permit (1992-20) stating "barn with conditional use permit for business" was found in the Town Clerk's Office. After I withdrew my application, meeting minutes that expanded upon my 1992 permit as well as 1991 permits were found. I have since taken time to review all of these documents, obtain more information about the permitting process, with which I am now applying. I am applying for a year round Integrated Agriculture Conditional Use Permit, and am endeavoring to preserve the working landscape by utilizing my property and historic barn structure.

During the past months I contacted all of my neighbors to let them know I was continuing the permit process. I asked them to let me know if they had any questions or concerns. I gave all of my neighbors copies of my application and the accompanying statement. I again asked for them to please let me know if they had any questions or concerns.
